David Genadek is a Master Saddle Maker who has spent over 25 years perfecting his craft. He is an expert in leather production methods, pattern design and the fine arts of carving and tooling. Dave is a student of Dr. Deb Bennett, a researcher in the field of bio-mechanical analysis of form in horses. In addition to custom saddle manufacturing, Dave presents clinics around the world on proper Western and English saddle fit, placing and securing saddles without pain for the horse, proper padding for a more comfortable fit and how rider position in the saddle affects saddle fit. Dave has been the subject of feature articles in issues of Horse & Rider and Western Horseman. His clinics are very educational and also a lot of fun! Come to learn and make some new friends!

We will also have some prize drawings during lunch, including a halter from Dreamweaver Tack! Check out the Dreamweaver Tack Facebook page to see some beautiful examples of mohair tack!
